

Agency Priority Goal Action Plan

Reduce Consumer Risk from Regulated Products through Modernization

Goal Leader:

Jeremy Todd Reed, Chief Operating Officer

Overview

Goal Statement

The Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) will reduce consumer risk from FSIS-regulated products by systematically controlling and preventing hazards through the use of modernized systems, policies, and scientific approaches. By September 30, 2021, the Department intends to propose or implement eight modernization initiatives.

Challenges

Competing internal and external deadlines as these documents are reviewed during the clearance process.

Opportunities

Leverage current processes to oversee performance, mitigate risk and monitor progress while continuing to ensure strategic alignment.

Leadership & Implementation Team

- The Agency leverages its Enterprise Governance process to achieve its APG. This process, formally documented in policy, has executive-level enterprise boards that align up to the Management Council for decision-making and implementation. This process involves all levels of leadership through to the Agency Administrator.
- FSIS collaborates with FDA and other Federal agencies, when applicable, to ensure new policies and initiatives are consistently promoting best practices for food safety. Several examples of this include the FSIS-FDA Dual-Jurisdiction Establishments Workgroup, the Interagency Collaboration on Genomics for Food and Feed Safety, and the Interagency Food Safety Analytics Collaboration, to name a few.

Additional Information

Stakeholder / Congressional Consultations

- During policy development, the Office of Policy and Program Development consults with the Office of Field Operations and other FSIS program areas, as needed.
- FSIS fulfills its obligation to notify the Union of changes in policy through the procedures in the collective bargaining agreement with the National Joint Council of Food Inspectors, which is the exclusive representative of the bargaining unit employees.
- Through the Federal Register process, FSIS will request comments before finalizing any of the initiatives. Potential stakeholders may include industry or consumer advocacy groups.
